Is the only way to change it from the mongo config file. Mongo config file looks like: db.updateMongoErrorFn=function(error) { console.log(error); } I know it would make good sense to have error reporting be a standard in php, but is that what this config file is for? A: No, it's not for that. It's for changing the default behavior of the MongoDB driver for PHP. From the docs: MongoDB PHP Driver ignores errors

What are some of the learning styles and how do you apply them in your teaching? What are some of the... Answer : 2007-12-11 3. Discussions of silent letters in the following sentences: The learning style, which may be associated with a certain learning disposition, e. g. through deschooling some of the scholasticism to a more emotional and natural way of education. Its final purpose, is, however, to work towards the goal of individual freedom. The Dostoevskyan school, therefore, is also a neo-Meadian school.. Answer : 2007-12-11 4. The learning styles model is used to identify how people learn and cope with the world. The DSTs is an assessment device that examines how students learn. This type of learning assessment measures the effectiveness of a teaching and learning strategy. All the seven types of learners, that are identified by McLeod, have different styles of learning. Many programs and tests are now being given to students to assess their learning styles. Does the learning style theory fit into your vision of learning? A learning style is the way a person approaches learning, the manner in which information is processed, and the processes by which information is applied to his/her life. Answer : 2007-12-11 5. The seven learning styles are: Visual (Verbal): These people prefer to study pictures, charts, diagrams and models. It is suitable for those students who have a pictorial, spatial, kinesthetic or aural memory. They learn best through seeing and hearing and tend to get bored when it comes to reading. Auditory (Verbal): These people prefer to study through words and reading. They are fond of listening to music, playing games, and listening to stories. Students with a strong auditory learning style tend to be artistic, musical and verbal. Visual (Verbal): These people prefer to study pictures, charts, diagrams and models. Vol. 3, Issue 4 Monthly Business School Review SEMESTER EXAMINATION TEST METHODOLOGY EME SAT is a comprehensive, norm-referenced test for measuring student achievement, developed by the College Board, and administered by Pearson Vue. The exam is designed to measure the skills and knowledge required to pass each of the four EME content areas: English/Language Arts, Mathematics, Science, and Social Studies. The end result is a numeric score known as the EME SAT score or EME estimated grade point average. The estimated grade point average will be reported in terms of the number of points earned for every 100 points of score. EME estimated grade point average is used by universities to compare students to make admissions and financial aid decisions. The estimated grade point average is based on the mean scores for subgroups of students, which are defined by specified characteristics. The groups are developed using the nationally normed score in relation to a distribution of students demonstrating similar scores. The specific characteristics may include gender, race and ethnicity, U.S. history or economics, among others. Using the EME estimated grade point average as a measure of standardized content achievement can create an inaccurate picture of the skills and knowledge students are able to acquire in a specific content area. The College Board recognizes this as a potential drawback to using EME estimated grade point average. They developed the Score Improvement Plan to better align EME estimated grade point average with actual college and career readiness. This plan allows the College Board to report the maximum score that would have been earned by a student, given the information provided by that student's test taker. EME SAT scores are one of the most widely reported standards and measures of student achievement. In the 2016-2017 school year, 38,252,297 students in the United States scored the EME SAT with an average score of 527. The average test-taker earned 29 points more than expected by the test-taker's ability based on test-taker characteristics given their score. This is known as score improver. Teacher's can get free information on the EME SAT at the testator's website: For test-taker information, go to: CLIENT: ESTEEM MONTH: MARCH, 2017 END: March, 2017
