I'm trying to combine multiple aerial rasters into one, but after merging it, I get an error about the coverage area of the raster being off. I've tried resampling and centering, but they don't seem to do anything. I don't know if this matters, but I'm using ArcGIS Desktop 10.3.1 for Linux. A: I think the error message is telling you that you are trying to combine rasters that have data in different bands. You can check this

More specifically, the invention relates to providing water to a packet. A packet of tobacco is an example of an article of manufacture that requires water to be processed during manufacture. Conventional methods of making packets involve forming a mass of tobacco around a center, placing the mass into a die, and injecting water into the die in order to form the walls of the packet. In a typical mold, the walls of the packet are formed by injecting water into the mold at the bottom of the mold. A structure typically referred to as a plug is formed in the bottom of the die at the same time the walls of the packet are being formed. The plug performs a number of functions. The plug is used to keep the die spaced from the tobacco mass as the tobacco mass enters and fills the die. After the mass of tobacco is completely inserted into the die, the plug is used as a stand-off for the walls of the packet as they are formed. The plug also provides a generally permanent shape to the walls of the packet. Conventional methods of processing tobacco
