It's not something I get to do regularly and I'm really looking forward to getting my hands on some great new kit. But, actually, I've got an interesting story to tell here. It wasn't my first. We've been working with renewable energy companies for a number of years. We've provided them with robust, agile platforms to support their own business objectives. But this was the first time we attended a trade exhibition aimed at adding an additional dimension to the service that we can provide. We had a number of things going for us this year and I d0c515b9f4

The important distinction between short-term and long-term regulation is illustrated by relating two patterns of muscle oxygen consumption (VO2) to different rates of ventilation. During progressive increases in ventilation above the resting value, three measures of whole body oxygen consumption (VO2) are related to the inspiratory activity of the diaphragm, where short-term regulation occurs, and to limb muscle, where long-term regulation occurs. At each level of ventilation, the two muscles have similar oxygen extraction capacity and VO2 is regulated to a similar extent; yet, there are important differences in kinetic responses between them. At each level of ventilation, VO2 measured over the first 11 s of each breath is related to the mean inspiratory length (I) but not to the amplitude (A) of the first inspiration. VO2 and I show considerable interindividual variation; for example, in rest, diaphragm VO2 is 1.77 +/- 0.16 L.min-1 (SD) and limb VO2 0.44 +/- 0.08 L.min-1. Both muscles are highly constrained in time; at rest they cannot increase significantly in oxygen extraction rate during a bout of exercise. The data illustrate how the 'rate of breathing' can be defined differently for different purposes and the necessity of caution in analysing responses of VO2 to exercise.Welcome to another great month of Minecraft... Our Birthday Edition! January is our birthday month and this year, we're celebrating with a little more in-game fun! The Birthday theme this year is based on the old, classic Hallows' Eve block drop event! For those that don't know, that event started out as a way to celebrate Halloween, and it was a simple exchange. Players could trade their Nightly Redstone Lamps for Daybreak Stone Lamp. That was it! Everything changed on November 6th, 2016 when someone from our community coded a way to trade in blocks of your choice! So, now, for the first time, we have the ability to exchange our own custom blocks in-game. In honor of this, I'm going to give you a look at what we've been working on. So, without further ado...
