Q: How to ignore Case Sensitive in SELECT in Oracle I have 2 tables. Table A

TABLE_ID	Table_Name
1	AA
2	BB
3	CC
4	DD
5	EE

Table B

ID	Table_Name
1	aa
2	bb
3	cc
4	dd
5	ee

I want to get Table_Name by applying case-insensitive ON Select and I want to get only the lower case table_name with values AA BB CC DD EE. I've tried this one

Select A.Table_Name From A,B WHERE B.TABLE_ID=A.TABLE_ID AND UPPER(B.Table_Name) Like ('%'+UCASE(A.Table_Name)+'%')

But this is not what I want. This one is also not what I want.

Select A.Table_Name From A,B WHERE B.TABLE_ID=A.TABLE_ID AND UPPER(B.Table_Name) Like ('%'+Lower(A.Table_Name)+'%')

Please guide me what i'm doing wrong.

A: You can use

UPPER(Table_Name) LIKE '%' + LOWER(Table_Name) + '%'

to get all entries that match the

How to do it? A: The server is not sending the Content-Length header, which tells the client how long the response will be. So the client must keep reading the response until it gets to EOF. If you have a recent version of curl, and it supports HTTP/2 you can use the -C switch to curl to tell it to use HTTP/2. $ curl -v -C - * About to connect() to server port 80 (#0) * Trying server.com... connected * Connected to server.com (server.com) port 80 (#0) > GET / HTTP/1.1 > Host: server.com > User-Agent: curl/7.55.1 > Accept: / > -C curl is setting the content-length of the headers in the request it sends. That means the client will do a read of the entire header before sending the first data. Then, curl gets the response header that says how long the response is and it tells curl to keep reading, and it does. 34. Copyright 1. Table of Contents 2. Beginning of book 3.
