Q: Show a google maps in android I want to add google maps functionality in my android application. Could any one tell me how can i do that?? or link me with the documentation which will help me to achieve this. I have a reference of google maps api and wanted to add a simple map into my application. Could anyone help me? A: Do not try to redraw a map manually. it is a hell of a task and no api is going to help. Instead you should create your own map renderer. I did this exact thing about six months ago. this is how I did it: this.mapView = (MapView) findViewById(R.id.map); MyMapFragment mapFragment = new MyMapFragment(); SupportMapFragment mapSupport = (SupportMapFragment) getSupportFragmentManager().findFragmentById(R.id.map); mapSupport.getMapAsync(this); mapView.getMapAsync(this); The class MyMapFragment extends MapFragment. public class MyMapFragment extends MapFragment { @Override public View onCreateView(LayoutInflater inflater, ViewGroup container, Bundle savedInstanceState) { View view = inflater.inflate(R.layout.my_map, container, false); return view; } } You'll have to remove this class and implement onCreate() and onDestroy() yourself to remove the map if the activity should be destroyed.
