KEYMACRO is a software for generating the key used in an encryption method (AES or 3DES) called MAC.KEYMACRO allows you to generate a key of 32 bytes of random data that is used to calculate the MAC for encrypted files. KEYMACRO encryption is used in order to prevent the re-encryption of the same file. It is advisable to use only one key for each file, in order to have the same key to be used for the encryption and decryption process. In order to generate a key with KEYMACRO: 1. Choose the desired key length (32, 128 or 256 bytes). 2. You must enter the characters in the control panel or in the input box. 3. Press the "Generate" key and wait for the result.

XviDenc can encode a variety of video streams for the most popular web sites and games. It can work with a range of file formats including AVI, ASF, MPEG, MKV, WMV, and VOB files. It can also decode the same range of video formats. It can use the same decoder on the local machine. XvidEnc (XviDenc's commercial, paid version) is only available as a download. It does not come on CD. XviDenc works with the VLC media player. XviDenc has no legal license. It is free to use, distribute and modify under the terms of the GNU Public License. XvidEnc is part of the Xvid (www.xvid.org) project and the DVEnc (www.dvenc.net) project. XvidEnc features: The XvidEnc source code is freely available for use, distribution and modification under the terms of the GNU Public License (GPL). XvidEnc is an extremely fast encoder. XvidEnc can encode a file in minutes. XvidEnc encodes AVI files of up to 4 minutes per second. XvidEnc can encode AVIs with up to 100 MB/s, meaning that the files can be encoded in less than 10 seconds. XvidEnc is very fast because it is only interested in decoding and encoding parts of an AVi file. XvidEnc can work with just a small portion of a file and encode the rest. This allows the encoder to spend a large amount of time encoding but only a small amount of time decoding. XvidEnc is fast because it can decode a number of video formats at the same time. It can do this by decoding and encoding the same video in parallel. You don't need to have the same video format as the decoder to do video encoding. XvidEnc will work with any decoder. XvidEnc is very portable and it runs in all popular operating systems. XvidEnc is extremely flexible. You can easily add new features using XvidEnc's configuration file. XvidEnc is very stable. The encoder has never crashed on me. I've only ever had
